When attending the online table tennis training, parents should remind your child to follow the following safety precautions:

- Students should wear proper clothing and footwear.
- The floor should be smooth and dry when exercising (floors can get wet from sweat causing slipping), and indoor areas well ventilated. Adequate space and a safe environment should be arranged.
- When exercising, students should drink water and pay attention to their personal hygiene.
- If feeling unwell during or after the activity, students should stop immediately and seek help from their parents or a doctor.
- Before activities, the camera should be switched on so that teacher or coach can teach and interact with students, as well as providing them with instructions and feedback.

We believe that children’s participation in extra-curricular activities plays an important role in their whole-person development. We hope you will encourage and support your child to join these post-lesson groups.
